

I am a military veteran and enjoy quilting, hiking, and traveling to visit our children and explore God's beautiful world. For 17 years my husband and I home schooled our children while I finished up my teaching degree. In 2012 I graduated Summa Cum Laude from Western Illinois University and taught in the East Moline and Moline school districts for one year before prayerfully accepting the English and drama teacher position here at QCCS.

My focus is on fostering a love of classic literature while learning how to filter life through the lens of a Christian world view. I believe written and oral communication is essential to the Christian walk. I feel honored and privileged to be shepherding and instructing this precious generation here at Quad Cities Christian School.
