

I joined the staff of QCCS in the fall of 2003 when the school was founded. I teach History, Geography, Economics and Government. I also serve as the faculty advisor to our Rotary InterAct club and serve as “lunch lady”!

My wife, Penny, and I began working with International students in 1999. I served several years as the Director of International Studies at Quad Cities Christian School. I have also served as a consultant to schools in the Association of Christian Schools International, helping them establish or improve systems for adding International students to their programs.

I will be retiring at the end of the 2016/2017 school year and will be moving to Tennessee to continue work with International Student programs.
